Re: Tony Rotherham

To whom it may concern,

Spirit of England has had the pleasure of working with Mr. Rotherham for many years, and in several capacities. As fight choreographer and weapons instructor he has proved second to none. His ever diligent eye for perfection, and with safety as his number one priority, Tony's assistance has helped the company go from strength to strength.

For a few years Tony's role extended beyond his fighting skills to encompass his vast historical knowledge, which has proved invaluable to the company.

Tony has also been responsible for assisting the organising of many, often grand, national and international events and all have benefited from his characteristic eye for detail and safety that have left him as one of the countries leading fight choreographers and lay historians.

It is without hesitation that I would give my backing to any of his future ventures, knowing the professional quality he can bring to anything he turns his hand to.
